Indians All-Star rightfielder, Manny Ramirez, was the recipient of the 1998 Gordon Cobbledick Golden Tomahawk Award. The award was presented by Hugh Morgan, President of the Wahoo Club, in a pregame, on-field ceremony on April 14 before a game against Kansas City.

Since 1963, the Wahoo Club has presented this very special tribute, named in honor of former PLAIN DEALER Sportswriter Gordon Cobbledick, and given to the player selected by a vote of his teammates as the Tribe's Most Valuable Player.

In 1998, Ramirez hit .294, with 45 homers and 145 RBI in 150 games. Ramirez became the 36th recipient of this special recognition.

More Good News . . .

Manny Ramirez was named AL Player of the Month for April. It was second time in his career for the honor, the first being in May of 1995.
